

40th International Colloquium for BICOM Users

from 29 April to 1 May 2000 in Fulda

Nefiodow, L.	On the threshold of the sixth Kondratieff. The health market — the future driving force of the economy from 2000	1
Brügemann, H.	A new era dawns in BICOM resonance therapy	8
Will, G.	Biophysical therapy of mildew fungi contamination	20
Hennecke, J.	New findings on allergy therapy — testing and new therapy methods for seldom encountered blockages and energy deficiency	23
Potthoff, K.-F.	Practice study of BICOM 2000	27
Beike, A.	My observations on BICOM 2000	31
Asbach-Gawenda, L	Effectiveness of BICOM therapy proven with dark-field photographs of three different cases	34
Lund, Ch.	Neurological illnesses, causes and treatment methods using bioresonance therapy	37
Roth, N.	Therapies in changing times — ideas on a complex concept in bioresonance therapy	38
von Braunschweig, G.	Bioresonance therapy as an invaluable tool in a successful practice	42
Sievert, H.	Auto-immune diseases as a result of increasing immune damage — status identification background burdens and a concept for a practically proven diagnosis and therapy system	47
Ganswindt, Th.	Vaccination burdens in veterinary medicine, effects and therapy possibilities of BRT	54
Keyrner, M.	Is promising tumour therapy possible in spite of unavoidable traditional medical interventions?	60
Maubach-Chandra, V.	Integrating BICOM therapy into a dental practice	71
Hahlweg, M,	Effective cleansing via the lymphatic system	102
Wehmann, W. M.	Your back, your fate?	105
Heine, K.	Old/new practical experiences. New programs from Mrs Karz (Crete)	110
Kreisl, P.	Presently discussed hypotheses on the nature of bioenergetic information	115
Hey, E.	The status of BRT in holistic medicine	118
Baklayan, A. E	Cancer, metastases and their treatment considering parasitic burdens	120
Lentzroth, Ch.	The ankle joint — the forgotten joint at the entrance to the body and its significance for the connective tissue	129

41st International Colloquium for BICOM Users

from 28 to 30 April 2001 in Fulda

Baklayan, A. E	Practical tumour therapy with consideration for the internal milieu using BRT	1
Mielke, K. J.	The people's illness, irritable bowel syndrome (IBS) - Pathophysiological context of causes of IBS - Treatment of IBS using bioresonance therapy, BICOM	9
Scherwitz-Joscnhans, E.	Childhood allergies and nutrition	18
Lange, G.	Employing orthomolecular substances successfully in the fight against infectious diseases, chronic inflammation, allergic disorders, arteriosclerosis and cancer	23
Mielke, K.J.	The common complaint of heartburn - Pathophysiological context of the causes of the dominant symptom of reflux disease, heartburn - Therapy for reflux disease using bioresonance therapy, BICOM	27
Schwarze, A.	Building biology as a condition of successful bioresonance therapy?	36
Baklayan, A. E.	Which previously unheeded factor plays an outstanding part in cow's milk allergy?	40
Schroeder, R.	Latest findings on the causes of hyperkinetic syndrome (ADHD) and the importance of a holistic naturopathic approach to treatment	45
Karz, S.	Highlights of my 20 years' experience with bioresonance therapy; then and now	49
Sievert, H.	Bioenergetic diagnosis for therapy using the BICOM 2000 — A practical case with autoaggressive disease as an example	54
Keymer, M.	New ways of looking at allergic diathesis and establishing links with our allergy therapy, autoaggression diseases and tumours	61
Popp, F. A.	Recent findings in modern physics and a possible connection with bioresonance therapy	69
Mersmann, L.	Biophysical basis for separating physiological and pathological frequency patterns	70
Heine, K.	The unrivalled accuracy of bodily secretions and excretions in bioresonance therapy	73
Glantschnig, A	A very successful treatment for chronic udder inflammation in cows	75
Dachs, E.	Regressive vicariation thanks to BICOM 2000 - documented with reference to darkfield images	78
Kaul, M.	Previously overlooked components of bioresonance therapy in physical and rehabilitative medicine	87
Bauer, I. E.	Evidence of the effectiveness of BRT by means of decoder dermatography	95
Hennecke, J.	Simplified application of proven therapy programs with the BICOM 2000	103
Karz, S	Frequently overlooked possibilities to successfully help with BICOM bioresonance therapy	107

42nd International Colloquium for BICOM Users

from 3 to 5 May 2002 in Fulda

Neurohr, R.	Biological effects of “light”	1
Baklayan, A. E.	The cholesterol problem and its treatment	2
Balakireva, O. V. Netschay, I. V.	New approaches in the treatment and rehabilitation of bronchial asthma patients (combining bioresonance therapy and Detensor therapy)	10
Brügemann, H.	The new BICOM Multisoft program — Another milestone in BICOM bioresonance therapy	18
Valeske, P.-G.	The new BICOM Multisoft program — practical trial	27
Hamcke, B. T.	BICOM therapy - keeping it simple and notes on macular degeneration	31
Baklayan, A" E.	Useful empirical values for the treatment of asthma	37
Asbach-Gawenda, L.	Successful treatment with the BICOM 2000 supported with dark field images	40
Sievert, H.	Further aspects relating to hereditary toxic stresses for the successful treatment of chronic disorders	47
von Braunschweig, G.	Conservative tumour therapy for the elderly and the importance of central control	51
Martin, S.	Study of the early diagnosis of relapsing breast carcinoma	58
Luncl, Ch..	Rheumatic disorders — dealing with initial exacerbation“ Interesting neuropathy case studies	62
Hennecke, J.	Extended bioresonance therapy incorporating the principles of traditional Chinese medicine (T CM) — energetic basis for allergic diathesis	64
Sextro, R.	Drug allergies and intolerance — neglected aspects	71
Nigrmann, Ulrike	The HCl (hydrochloric acid) point and its significance for metabolism and immunity	77
Goebbels, C.	Experience of using bioresonance therapy in veterinary practice	82
Baumann, A.-K.	Study of the elimination of mercury from the human body by means of bioresonance therapy	89
Hermes, K.	The fidgety child — bane of both parents and teachers but an opportunity for your BRT practice	92
Bauer, I. E.	Courage in treating tinnitus	102

43rd International Congress for BICOM Users

from 2 to 4 May 2003 in Fulda

Felsch, H.	Water as an information carrier - Principles, medicinal and physical effects	1
Sievert, H.	Classic and everyday children's illnesses in practice	9
Baklayan, A. E.	Opening up new dimensions for BICOM bioresonance therapy - spin tester -	19
Bauer, I. E.	Stroke: Early diagnosis, treatment and aftercare using BICOM bioresonance therapy	24
Valeske, P.-G.	BICOM Multisoft - One year's experience using BICOM Multisoft	29
Schäfer, D.	BIOSAFE: radiation field neutralization and frequency-adapted electromagnetic interference suppression for individual sleeping areas	32
Hennecke, I.	Identifying and removing therapy blocks caused by radiation stress	37
Baklayan, A. E.	Documented cases of successful cancer therapy and recent discoveries in cancer therapy	42
Rohrer, W.	Treating rheumatic disorders successfully using the BICOM 2000	50
Gaizweiler, A.	New documentary evidence for biophysical diagnosis and therapy	56
Fiedler, J.	Veterinary practice findings	64
Asbach-Gawenda, L.	Relationship of certain viruses, bacteria and fungi to certain chronic diseases and the effect on therapy	66
Matthey, G.	Diagnosing and treating rheumatism and fibromyalgia	69
Garbotz, M.	Surprises revealed in the course of therapy by case histories	83

44th International Congress for BICOM Users

from 30 April to 2 May 2004 in Fulda

Prigge-Jugsch, A.	Treating bronchitis effectively with BICOM bioresonance therapy	1
Baklayan, A. E.	Cancer therapy — a new hypothesis	5
May, C.	Treating tumours in animals	11
Maubach-Chandra, V.	What can be achieved with amalgam elimination	14
Goder, T.M.	Success in treating resistant pathogens and infections which do not	20
Goder, F.-G.	respond to clinical treatment with BICOM resonance
Hennecke, J.	Treatment of thyroid disorders with BICOM therapy	25
Sievert, H.	Structured approach to therapy using BICOM 2000, including patients presenting difficult clinical pictures	30
Baklayan, A. E.	The significance of underlying intracellular stress in chronic, rheumatic and neurological disorders	35
Morkos, H.	Treatment of serious neurological diseases of children showing two cases including video demonstration of cerebral palsy (CP)	42
Angene, H.	Treating skin disease effectively, particularly neurodermatitis and psoriasis	50
Lange, G.	An effective addition to BICOM bioresonance therapy with hyperactive children	57
Peña Marvez, R.	Treatment of pathologies including cerebral foci with the BICOM 2000, including demonstration	62
Medved, A.	Treatment of psoriasis with BICOM 2000 in the sanatorium	68
Garbotz, M.	BICOM Babies	77

45th International Congress for BICOM Users

from 29 April to 1 May 2005 in Fulda

Felsch, H.	The Nobel Prize in Chemistry 2003 — what are the implications of these new discoveries for BICOM bioresonance therapy	1
Asbach-Gawenda, L.	Treatment of Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis with BICOM bioresonance	7
Henrichmann, S	(In)curable illnesses — extraordinary cases treated successfully	15
Barrie, A. und Barrie, A.	Successful BICOM treatment of central nervous system disorders in children	20
Baklayan, A. E.	Results of treating intracellular infestation by Borrelia and other micro-organisms	28
Baklayan, A. E	Results of a pilot study into the link between blood parasites and cancer and their successful treatment	35
Sievert, H.	Practical application of the 5 element theory using concrete examples	43
Brügemann, H.	The fascinating development of bioresonance therapy: Discoveries, research, ideas and hard work	50
Niggli, H.	Zero point energy and bioresonance — Subatomic communication in the biophoton field of cells	55
Kajasi, A.	Use of bioresonance therapy in ophthalmology	62
Fiedler, J.	Treating skin disease in animals (dogs, cats, horses) effectively	67
Yuan Ze, and Wang Haiyan	The clinic results of BICOM 2000 bio-resonance device	69
Henncke, J.	Successful treatment of liver disorders and liver diseases using bioresonance therapy	72
Karz, S.	Treating spinal and joint disease with BICOM bioresonance and BICOM chips	75

46th International Congress for BICOM Users

from 28 to 30 April 2006 in Fulda

Brügemann, H.	Introduction to the BICOM Congress 2006	1
Hennecke, J.	Experience in treating bronchial asthma	3
Schwarze, W.	Treatment of post-traumatic pain and vertebral pain syndromes without side effects	9
Sievert, H	The significance of the acid-base balance in BICOM practice	16
Pacber, W.	Borreliosis treatment in veterinary medicine with parallels to human medicine	24
Maquinay, S.	Individual pain therapy using the body's own information	26
Klammrodt, A.	Vaccine damage and its repercussions — Diagnosis and therapy with BICOM	29
Kramer, D.	Experience of testing and treating degenerated cells with the BICOM Combined Test Technique	33
Hug, D.	Some instructive cases from the field of sports medicine	40
Seeger, M.	BICOM bioresonance therapy and imprints of the foot zones on the plate electrodes	44
Ahrens, C.	Integration of bioresonance methods — Experience a financial viewpoint	45
Wang J. Lu S.J.	Clinical study of treatment of allergic asthma and allergic rhinitis using BICOM 2000	55
Brügemann, H. Schuder, S.	The significance of the tooth-organ relationship in diagnosing functional and organic interferences	67
Baklayan, A. E.	Specific environmental toxins in relation to the syndromes asthma, Parkinson's and diabetes	71

47th International Congress for BICOM Therapists

from 28 to 30 April 2007 in Fulda

H. Brügemann and Mrs. H. Brügemann	Opening of the Congress	1
Dr. G. S. Hanzl	Changing thought structures in postmaterialistic science and the consequences for a new medical ethics	2
H. Brügemann	New scientific documentation on the BICOM bioresonance method	12
Dr. J. Hennecke	Therapy for headaches	18
Prof. Dr. C. W. Smith	Frequencies: Effect, functions and meaning for the living organism	22
J. Wehrhuhn	Treating broncho-pulmonary diseases	51
U. Ritz	A good anamnesis saves time	55
Prof. Dr. Feng Yi Zhen, Liu Li Ping and Wong Jin Rong	Clinical effect, safety and mechanisms of BICOM 2000 system to asthma in children	59
M. Riffel	Therapy of the spine via the tooth and jaw region	64
J. Rütger	Fidgety Philip and little dreamer; treatment of ADHS with the BICOM	71
Dr. R. Oesterle	Treating the causes of ulcerative colitis and Crohn's disease	74
Dr. E. Beereuther	BICOM – the efficient addition to dental practice	82
A. Barrie PhD, D. A. Barrie	Chronic fatigue and fibromyalgia	102
Dr. F. Denzinger	Ataxia and ataxic lameness in a horse practice	117
Dr. Ö. Kiran	In 124 cases of herniated discs: Bioresonance therapy instead of operating	122
A. Prigge-Jugsch	Effective pain therapy instead of painkillers	125
H. Sievert	Improved quality of life through adjuvant tumour therapy	129
Dr. M. Jaecks	Allergies and fluoride	136

48th International Congress for BICOM Therapists

from 1 to 3 May 2008 in Fulda

H. Brügemann and Mrs. H. Brügemann	Opening of the Congress	1
Prof. Dr. S. Schulz	Information — our immaterial life principle	2
Dr. J. Hennecke	Menopausal syndrome — successful treatment with bioresonance	14
Prof. M. Kolbezen	Holistic treatment of sports injuries	21
Dr. W. Rohrer	Coupling — a possible extension in testing with the Combined Test Technique (CTT)	29
H. Brügemann	Bioresonance therapy and The Low on Advertising in The German Health Care System	33
K. Heine	Using endogenous substances best advantage with BICOM bioresonance therapy	34
Dr. G. Rummel	Standardized method of treatment for allergy induced disorders	40
Dr. B. Fleischer	Diagnosis and treatment of borrelioses-related disorders - various stages and manifestations	54
Dr. S. Rauch	Integrating the eight extraordinary meridians in bioresonance therapy	60
J. Fiedler	An excursion through the veterinarian BICOM practice	71
I. Patz	Use of The BICOM cupping electrode 'rherc1py'ro 'rreo'r hypertension	78
Dr. J. Lahodny	Carcinoma aftercare using bioresonance method	87
S. Hänni	Echinococcosis treatment using the bioresonance method	91
S. Dziallas	Treatment of infectious diseases in veterinary medicine	98
S. Karz	Promising opportunities for treating parasites using blood and saliva	103
H. Sievert	Background stresses and treatment for Multiple Sclerosis	109

49th International Congress for BICOM Therapists

from 1 to 3 May 2009 in Fulda

H. Brügemann	Introduction	1
Prof. em.	The boundaries of scientific knowledge	3
Dr. H. Pieischmann
H. Brügemann	The significance of deep frequencies and ways of stabilizing patients during treatment	13
S. Karz	Extended therapy programs bring even more effective treatment	21
Dr. J. Hennecke, S. Maquinay	New effective BICOM therapy combinations which save time – (not just) with difficult patients	26
Dr. D. Stanchina	Allergy patients who appear to be resistant to therapy	32
R. Haussmann	Infectious diseases and the BICOM method	42
N. Lindner	Treating chronic inflammatory bowel diseases with BICOM and Multisoft software	45
Dr. S.von Jordans	Borrelia — in dogs, cats, horses, and ferret too	50
M. Grunefeld	BICOM therapy in pediatric practice	56
M. Riffel	Bioenergetic therapy of the shoulder joint	60
Dr. E. Beereuter	Using information from the extracellular fluid for BICOM therapy	67
Dr. Ö Kiran	Successful tumor therapies using the bioresonance method	85
T. Schank	Borrelia infection — what next?	88
Dr. A. Harte	Leopards can't change their spots — skin disease in veterinary surgery	96
A. Prigge-Jugsch	Simple ideas for treating common acute and chronic syndromes, e.g. otitis, bronchitis, sinusitis	106
A. Rijsberman	Terrorists in the immune system	110

50th International Congress for BICOM Therapists

from 30 April to 2 May 2010 in Fulda

H. Brügemann	Foreword to RTI Volume 2010	1
	Important information concerning The RTI Volume 2	2
Dr. J. Hennecke	New experiences with low deep frequencies and the second channel	3
S. Maquinay
Dr. P. Seftel	Focus on tinnitus — a real torment	9
Dr. C. Wolschner	Nutrient points according to Sissi Karz — using them in practice for diagnostics and therapy	20
Dr. W. Rohrer	Post-traumatic & post-operative problem cases in orthopedics	32
A. Meyer	Successful and effective anti-smoking therapy	51
Dr. Ö. Kiran	Polyneuropathies	56
J. Rüter	Vaccinations: ingredients, heavy metals, implications	60
S. Karz	Biological treatment of metabolic disorders	74
Dr. A. Buff	Efficient mycosis therapy using the Bicom Optima	85
Dr. H. Wagner	Borrelia infection — the latest widespread disease?	91
Dr. S. von Jordans	Vaccine blockages and their impact on animals	93
Dr. B. Irmeler	Detecting the main interference fields using ear acupuncture points	95
Ch. Hermann	Tumors: holistic diagnosis and therapy	104
Dipl. Med. B. Fleischer	Mitochondropathies — a challenge for holistic medicine	107

51st International Congress for BICOM Therapists

from 3 to 5 June 2011 in Fulda

Hans Brügemann	Welcome and opening the Congress	1
Prof. Dr. Norbert Harthun	Technology-Therapist-Patient: A subtle combination	3
Dr. Cornelia Wolschner	Tolerance of dental materials and their influence on patient health	22
Sissi Karz	Successful therapy using the symmetrical amplification sweep	36
Norbert Lindner	Acne — a problem not confined to puberty	42
Dr. Petra Maack-Wantzen	Environmental stresses: The body's toxin warning	46
Dr. Willy Hammerschmidt	Hyperactive children - a major challenge for all involved	49
Ralf Kiesele	Infectious diseases: Acute, chronic, protracted or masked	57
Dr. Georg Müller	“Foot eczema” in horses?	62
Christiane Herrmann	Multiple Sclerosis — does this diagnosis have to spell doom?	67
Dr. Barbara Irmeler	Losing weight with Bicom: simple treatment using the body's acupuncture points	70
Dr. Uta Schmieden-Lindner	The culprit isn't just found in the intestine Pancreatitis, gastritis, enteritis & Co	82
Marcel Riffel	Teeth as overriding interference fields in musculoskeletal disorder	88
Jörg Fiedler	Use of deep frequencies and the second channel in veterinary medicine — the HOW and WHY!	97
Ilona Patz	The menopause: hormone therapy is not always essential	101
Dr. Sinan Akkurt	Having the courage to treat advanced stages of cancer using the Bicom	105
